The Liability Law in International Air Transport

April 19th, 2020 - The latter represents the liability law in international air transport regulating the relationship between an air carrier and its customers. This law is crucial for ensuring fair and reasonable compensation for passengers in case of accident or damage during air travel. It is designed to balance the interests of both air carriers and passengers, providing a framework for resolving disputes that may arise. As the world of air travel continues to evolve, the liability law in international air transport will remain a critical topic for discussion and development.
